HISTORIC DOWNTOWN CHARLESTON

2015

What The Spectator Hotel is a 41-room boutique hotel located at the corner of State and Linguard Streets, one block from the Historic Charleston City Market. The building houses three levels of guest rooms over ground level parking along with a social gathering area and bar, featuring Prohibition-era cocktails.

The inspiration for The Spectator has multiple ties to Charleston’s rich history. The Spectator represents an elegance that was also found in the bustling French Quarter and Market Street districts where the hotel is located, making it a fitting name for one of the Holy City’s premier hotels – a place to see and be seen.

Address 67 State Street, Charleston, S.C. 29401
